
Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Space as language	1
Why a language?	1
The art of architecture	2
The social art	4
The language of space	6
Reading the language	8
Behavioural settings	11
How this book works	12
2 Space and the human dimension	14
The human basis of the language	14
The human psyche	15
Motivation and need	16
Spatial needs	18
Stimulation	18
Security	21
Behavioural settings	23
The security of the passage of time	29
Identity	31
The balance of needs	35
3 Mechanisms of perceiving space	42
Sensation and perception	42
Size and distance	44
Scale	44
Scale of movement	55
Scale and the social order	59
Foreground and background	60

	Verticality	62
	Symmetry	62
	Colour	63
	Number	63
	Meaning	64
	Context	67
4	Ways of perceiving space	69
	The classical rulebook	69
	Perception as an active process	71
	Order, pattern and redundancy	72
	The good and bad side of being redundant!	76
	The expression of romanticism	81
	How buildings can signify	83
	Internal and external meaning	88
	Back to architecture!	92
	The language of modern architecture	97
5	Space and distance	100
	Abstract and meaningful distance	100
	Too close for comfort!	101
	Flight and fight	102
	'I need my space'	105
	'Keep in touch'	106
	Human distances	109
	Intimate distance	115
	Personal distance	117
	Social distance	118
	Public distance	119
	Multiple distances in a space	120
	Personality and context variation	122
	Cultural variation	125
6	Proxemics	128
	Non-verbal communication	128
	Spatially defined roles	131
	Spatial roles	133
	Sociofugal and sociopetal space	140
	Non-reciprocal relationships	144
	Waiting spaces	145
	Furniture	147

	'Front of house', 'back of house'	152
	Variations	156
	Movable and fixed furniture	160
7	The territory	164
	Are we really territorial?	164
	The nature and purpose of territory	167
	The national territory	169
	The borders and the heartland	172
	The city territory	173
	The family territory	175
	Trouble with the neighbours!	178
	Defending the territory and beyond	182
	The territory invaded	183
	The collapse of the territory	190
	The territory as social reinforcement	191
8	Space and time	194
	Predictions	194
	Design strategies for uncertainty	194
	The span of time in space	195
	Identifying levels of uncertainty	198
	'Designer' knowledge versus 'ordinary' knowledge	198
	One-way prediction	200
	Confidence of prediction and rates of change	201
	Purposeful and non-purposeful behaviour (apparently!)	203
	Learning from children	207
	Individuals, groups and crowds	210
	Movement	218
	The tyranny of functionalist space	221
	Invitational space	224
	Patterns of settings	225
9	Recording space	230
	Measuring place	230
	Semantic differentials	232
	Problems with the semantic differential	234
	But what does it mean?	236
	Attention and focus	237
	Measuring geometry	241
	Divide and conquer	246