

CONTENTS

.....

Abbreviations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	I
Patricia M. Locke

Part I: Liminal Space

1	Harkening to the Night for the Heart of Depth, Space, and Dwelling	23
	Glen A. Mazis
2	Depth of Space and Depth of World: Merleau-Ponty, Husserl, and Rembrandt's Nightwatch on a Modern Baroque	43
	Galen A. Johnson
3	Finding Architectural Edge in the Wake of Merleau-Ponty	65
	Edward S. Casey
4	Liquid Space of Matrixial Flesh: Reading Merleau-Ponty and Bracha L. Ettinger Poolside	90
	Randall Johnson

Part II: Temporal Space

5	Spatiality, Temporality, and Architecture as a Place of Memory	109
	David Morris

6	In Search of Lost Time: Merleau-Ponty, Bergson, and the Time of Objects Dorothea E. Olkowski	127
7	Inhabiting the House That Herman Built: Merleau-Ponty and the Pathological Space of Solitary Confinement Lisa Guenther	151
8	Stolen Space: The Perverse Architecture of Torture D. R. Koukal	170
Part III: Shared Space
9	Through the Looking Glass: The Spatial Experience of Merleau-Ponty's Metaphors Rachel McCann	189
10	Sheltering Spaces, Dynamics of Retreat, and Other Hiding Places in Merleau-Ponty's Thought Suzanne Cataldi Laba	201
11	Dimensions of the Flesh in a Case of Twins with Which I Am Familiar: Actualizing the Potential for Shared Intentional Space Nancy A. Barta-Smith	228
12	Dwelling and Public Art: Serra and Bourgeois Helen A. Fielding	258
	Contributors	283
	Index	289