

CONTENTS

SERIES FOREWORD	xi
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xiii
ABBREVIATIONS	xvi
PREFACE: THE FORMATION OF A PANORAMANIAC	xvii
1 INTRODUCTION: MOVING PANORAMA—A MISSING MEDIUM
– The Panorama and Things Panoramic	1
– From a Stationary to a Mobile Medium	6
– From the Shadow of the Mighty Rotunda	10
– The Painted, the Performed, and the Discursive Panorama	13
– Tracing the Topoi: The Media Archaeological Approach	16
– From Oblivion to Resurrection: A Road Map	18
2 THE INCUBATION ERA: ANTECEDENTS AND ANTICIPATIONS
– Moving Panorama—An Etymological Excavation	29
– Offshoot of the Panorama, or a Form of Visual Storytelling?	32
– Peeping at Picture Rolls	35
– Parklands in Boxes: Carmontelle's Transparencies	39
– Miniature Panoramas: From Popish Plots to Altona's Entertainments	46
3 LARGE AS LIFE, AND MOVING: THE PERISTREPHIC PANORAMA
– The Elusive Messrs. Marshall	65
– The Apparatus According to an Eyewitness	69
– Circularity, Stasis, and Motion—The French Connection	72
– Uncle Jack at the Moving Panorama Show	77
– “Perioramas” of the Mind, or the Discursive Dimension	81

4 ROLLING ACROSS THE STAGE:
THE MOVING PANORAMA AND THE THEATER

- Spectacle Takes Over: From Servandoni to De Louthembourg 93
- The Moving Pictures of the Eidophusikon 98
- Eidophusikon, Mechanical Theaters, and the Realm of Spectacles 103
- The Panorama, the Pantomime, and the Art of Heterogeneity 105
- Virtual Voyaging with the Balloon Panorama 112
- The Lure of the Market and Perfection in Invisibility 120

5 TRANSFORMED BY THE LIGHT:
THE DIORAMA AND THE "DIORAMAS"

- The Invention and Dissemination of a New Spectacle 139
- The Diorama as a Vision Machine 144
- "This Wondrous Exhibition," or the Diorama's Reception 149
- The Metamorphosis into an Itinerant Attraction 154

6 PANORAMANIA:
THE MID-CENTURY MOVING PANORAMA CRAZE

- Dry Season on Rainy Islands 169
- The Moving Panorama Penetrates American Culture 172
- John Banvard, or the Making of a Myth 176
- Trips to the World and the Heart: Panoramic Genres in America 180
- The American Invasion of the British Isles 186
- Countering with Quality: British Productions of the Panoramania Era 191

7 PANORAMANIA IN PRACTICE:
ALBERT SMITH AND HIS MOVING PANORAMAS

- The Natural History of a Bohemian 215
- At Home on the Overland Trail 218
- The Anatomy of an Alpine Spectacle 220
- Nougat Glacé de Mont Blanc, or Media Marketing 226
- Barnumized? 229
- A Parade of Epigones, or Anonymous Afterlives 233

8 AN EXCAVATION:
THE MOVING PANORAMA PERFORMANCE

- Parodying the Panorama 245
- Constructing Continuity 250
- Discontinuity as Strategy 255

9	INTERMEDIAL TUG OF WAR: PANORAMAS AND MAGIC LANTERNS
	– By Any Medium Available: The Civil War and the Panorama Trade	263
	– The Challenge and Dissemination of Dissolving Views	267
	– Panoramas and the Coming of Photography	273
	– A War of Discourses	276
10	SENSORY BOMBARDMENT: A MEDIUM'S FINAL FANFARES
	– The Myriorama as a Roadshow Attraction	287
	– The Théâtre Morieux Time Capsule	296
	– The Past as Future, or the Panorama Revival	302
	– Panoramas, Patents, and the Universal Exposition of 1900	306
	– “Vehicular Amplification,” or the Quest for Immersion	309
11	IMAGINATION IN MOTION: THE DISCURSIVE PANORAMA
	– Toward a Shadow History of the Moving Panorama	331
	– The Literary Absorption of the Moving Panorama	332
	– Exercises in Perception: From Stationary to Moving Panoramas	337
	– The Cranking God: Panoramas and the Religious Imagination	342
	– Mind, Memory, and Consciousness: Panoramic Parables	348
12	CONCLUSION: FROM PANORAMAS TO MEDIA CULTURE
	– Figures on the Screens, or Things Left Unsaid	361
	– What Is Media Culture?	364
	– From Illusions to Interactions	367
APPENDIX	A List of Surviving Moving Panoramas (Compiled with Suzanne Wray and Peter Morelli)	371
BIBLIOGRAPHY		387
INDEX		425